Excerpt: . . . even though that debt might be due as the purchase price of land, a new way of giving notice of the assignment to the debtor. The plaintiffs interest was primarily in the debt, not in the land. The vendor has in my opinion no right to convey the legal estate in the land to him. That would be a breach of his contract with the purchaser. No doubt by the assignment the vendor did grant and transfer to the plaintiff all his interest in the land. But that interest was the right to hold the title until he was paid. Inasmuch however, as the vendor had no right to transfer the title to the plaintiff it is difficult to see what right in the land was really transferred to the plaintiff. VV as it the vendors lien for unpaid purchase money Perhaps it was, though I find some difficulty in understanding why we should speak of a vendors lien on land of which he still holds himself the legal estate. The vendors lien is in such a case nothing other than the right to keep the title in his own name until he is paid and, perhaps, to exercise with or without the sanction of the Court a right of re-sale. But granting, as no doubt in some form or other is the case, that the plaintiff had an interest in the land which would support a caveat I think his caveat protected him...
